

The Public is Invited to Attend the Banking Program's Advisors Group Meeting on February 20, 2007

Ecology is meeting with the Wetland Banking Advisors Group on February 20, 2007 from 10 to 3 at the Seattle District Corps of Engineers in Seattle, WA. The Advisors Group consists of representatives from local, state, and federal agencies, environmental interests, banking, and agriculture and business communities. The Advisors Group provides guidance and identifies improvements to the Wetland Banking Program. The topic of discussion for this meeting is developing guidance and criteria on selecting appropriate service area and locations for wetland banks.

This meeting is open to the public, and – while reservations are not needed to attend this meeting – a call or email in advance helps us assure ample seating for all who plan to attend. Please contact Kate Thompson if you are interested in attending at 360-407-6749 or email kath461@ecy.wa.gov.

All day visitor parking is available in the lot across the street from the building. See the next page for a map and directions. Please bring a valid picture ID as visitors entering the building will pass through a security check point and will be required to sign in. The meeting will be held in the Galaxy Room, on your right after the reception desk.
